

20th World Congress of Neurology, Marrakesh, November 12-17, 2011

The city of Marrakech (Morocco) will host the 20th World Congress of Neurology (WCN) on November 12th to 17th, 2011.

The Congress is held under the High Patronage of His Majesty the King Mohamed VI. It will take place at the “Palais des Congrès”, located on a large avenue in the heart of Marrakesh. It is an international center for exhibition, which provides all necessary technical background for organizing a successful meeting, and has already hosted several large medical conferences.

Marrakesh is the first tourist city in Morocco and has more than 150 hotels. Many hotels are located close to the “Palais des Congrès” and are sufficient to accommodate all participants at less than 15 minutes walk. Marrakesh is also well known by his Ryads which are traditional houses and palaces with luxury and modern comfort.

« Palais des Congrès » of Marrakesh

Marrakesh is a wonderful and safe city with a secure environment. It is only three hours by direct flights from many European countries. Other parts of the world are served by flights to Casablanca, which is connected to Africa, Arabic countries, Asia, North and South America. Marrakesh can be easily reached from Casablanca in about two hours by highway, rail or by internal flights. Historically, Marrakesh is the heiress of an original civilization, distinctive by its architecture, traditional crafts, cuisine and the legendary hospitality of its people. Marrakesh is among the sunniest cities of the kingdom. In November, temperatures range between 12°C at night and 26°C during the day.

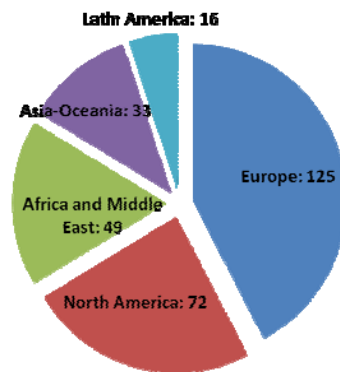

Sidelines of the congress, participants could walk to visit the main monuments of the city and participate in excursions to discover the beautiful landscapes of the region that includes the Oukaïmeden snowy mountains as well as the Atlantic coast.

The congress will be held on 6 days and will begin on Saturday, November 12th. The Scientific Program of the 20th WCN is rich and well underway. It contains 40 topics with 80 sessions. The various scientific sessions will include Teaching Courses, Plenary Sessions, Main Topics, Free Communications, Regional Sessions, Daily Debates (Controversies in Neurology), Sponsored Symposia and the Tournament of the Minds.
